LexisNexis® has brought together a range of indispensable titles on land, conveyancing and property law in Hong Kong — must-haves for every successful practitioner and professional in the industry.
Land Law in Hong Kong, 3RD Edition
Authors: SH Goo, Alice Lee

“This book is a testimony on how common lawyers in Hong Kong assimilate and apply English common law concepts to local situations. I believe the textbook will soon become a standard work in the library of every real property lawyer in Hong Kong.” — The Honourable Mr Justice Lam, High Court, Hong Kong

Land Law in Hong Kong has, since it first appeared in 1997, emerged as a leading book on the subject in Hong Kong. The new edition continues its tradition and takes account of all important legislative changes and recent cases. It brings the book fully up-to-date and will continue to be a useful guidance to practitioners.

Asia Pacific Construction Law CaseBook 2008 (Singapore title)
Authors: Philip CF Chan, Asanga Gunawansa, Lim chong Fong, Arthur Mcinnis

The selection of cases has been made with the view that the cases deal with issues that are important in connection with construction contracts, construction torts, and construction dispute resolution, and would interest and be useful to the stakeholders in the construction industry.

The selected cases have been presented with fronting commentaries. These commentaries have dealt with the key issues raised in the cases and the relevant legal principles that have been considered by the judges, offering the readers pertinent information for quick reference, a brief summary of the issues and their impact. Each commentary is followed by the case on the basis of ‘as is’, allowing the judges’ own words and reasoning lead the readers through the relevant legal doctrines and principles of law in detail.
